WOMAN'S SLAYER SHOT TO DEATH.

Jhon T. Roberts, Murderer of Mrs. Woodill, Killed in Boat.

SHERIFF'S POSSE GETS HIM

Was About to Land from Boat When Magistrate Demanded His Hands Up—Without a Word He Began Firing Upon the Posse.

United Press Telegram.

ST. MICHAELS, Md., June 25.—John T Roberts, the slayer of the beautiful and talented Mrs. Edith May Thompson Woodill, the adopted daughter of Col. Charles A Thompson, ward of former Secretary of the Treasury Lyman Gage, and wife of Gilbert Woodill, the wealthy Los Angeles automobile manufacturer, whose nude, mutilated and weighted down body was dragged from the river here Wednesday afternoon, was shot to death by a Sheriff's posse while resisting arrest on the wharf at McDaniel, Talbott county, at 4 o'clock this morning.

Shortly after midnight this morning a mysterious looking craft was seen moving up waters, back of the river. Sheriff Mortimer and Magistrate Willy were notified and they with a posse of six men hurried to the scene. All were armed. The posse obtained a boat and followed Roberts leisurely to create the impression in Roberts' mind that he was not being chased.

For three hours the two boats proceeded up the river, the shores narrowing all the while. As the shores came together the members of the posse made out the features of Roberts. When Roberts got abreast at the landing place and but 100 feet from the shore Magistrate Willy and two deputies stepped out in the opening.

"Hello Roberts, throw up your hands" shouted the magistrate.

Roberts did not utter a word but rose in his boat with a big revolver in his right hand. He quickly leveled it at the party and fired. Meyer Crone, a deputy, fired a shot from his revolver at the white shirted figure standing defiantly in the boat. Then Magistrate Willy discharged a shot gun and Roberts and Crone fired a second shot.

During the fusillade Roberts dropped in a heap in the boat. Then the deputies waded out to the small craft.

Roberts had been shot through the mouth and was dead.

PAVING CONTRACTS ARE SIGNED TODAY

Work To Be Started Upon Improvements—Practically Knocks Out Attempt to Stop It.

With the intention of beginning work on the various paving contracts let by Council Monday night, Contractors Marcus Marietta and Bernard O'Connor this morning executed their agreements with Town Council and furnished the required bonds.

Talk of an injunction to restrain Council from letting the contracts did not amount to much and the signing of the contracts today practically acts as a bar to such an action.

Now that the contractors have signed the contracts and furnished bonds, the borough would become liable for any action which might delay the work.

SHERIFF TAKES NEGRO TO MARYLAND

"Blind Tiger" Operations Charged Against Him—Other Negro Allowed to Go.

A. R. Hewitt, Chief Deputy to the Sheriff of Montgomery county, Maryland, arrived this morning and left on No. 6 taking with him Albert Baker, one of the two negroes arrested off of No 9 here Wednesday morning. The other negro was not wanted and will be discharged.

Baker was arrested in Rockville for running a "blind tiger" but jumped his bail of $200. He was apprehended here by prompt work on the part of the local police.

The members of the Photographers Association of Westmoreland and Fayette counties will hold their annual outing at Oakford Park, July 8, and a fine program is being arranged for the occasion.

A LUCKY PAIR.

MT. PLEASANT, June 25.—Homer Bowers, a local merchant, and his wife received the full force of a 15-foot tumble on Wednesday morning while Mr. Bowers was painting at his father's First Main street home.

Mr. Smith was working about the top of the ladder when it started to slip. The ladder and man dropped over just in time for the whole business to collapse on Mrs Bowers as she came around the corner of the house.

Strange to relate neither Mr. or Mrs Bowers were hurt in the least. Mrs. Bowers did not sustain a scratch, while her husband was only slightly bruised.

JUSTICE OF PEACE SHOOTS AT A MAN

Perry Donaldson Fired on Constable Morris While He Was Being Escorted To Jail.

UNIONTOWN, June 25.—A sensation was created here yesterday afternoon, when Justice of the Peace J. P. Donaldson of Fairchance, shot at Constable Milt Morris, as he was taking him to jail.

Donaldson had been arrested on information sworn to by County Detective Alex McIlath charging extortion. He was given a hearing by Squire D M. Bierer, and held for court. Donaldson was unable to furnish the bail immediately and he was on his way to jail.

Arriving in sight of the jail on Peter street, Donaldson quickly drew a revolver from his pocket and aimed at Morris. The ball passed close to his body and imbedded itself in a fence. Morris then grappled with Donaldson and finally two police officers came to his assistance and took the gun from Donaldson. The Constable dragged his man into the jail.

It is alleged that Donaldson extorted money at various times throughout the summer from Sunday dealers. He agreed to keep them from being prosecuted for Sunday violations if they would contribute $2 a Sunday to him.

LET AGED PARENT GO TO COUNTY HOME

Matthew Gagan Tells Poor Board He Is Not a Pauper, But Children Don't Want Him.

UNIONTOWN, June 25.—Matthew Gagan, who was committed to the County Home last Friday by Justice A. J. Hertzog of Springhill township, falteringly told the Poor Board yesterday that he was not a pauper, but that his children wanted him to go to the County Home.

He said that he had a little property near Outcrop, and that until recently he was able to make his living and get along very well. Recently Charles, his son who lives near him has been insisting upon him deeding the property to him and going to the County Home. Gagan says he has two sons and three daughters.

The Board will investigate and if they find his children financially able to care for him they will make them do so.

Many of the business men of Latrobe have subscribed to stock in the new enterprise, it is said, the promoter having met with more encouragement there than at any other town which he visited.

THE HOT WAVE.

No Signs of It Passing Away Although It May Rain.

The hot wave is still here and there are no indications that it is to be dispelled, for the present, at least. There is hardly any air stirring and the humidity of the atmosphere is pronounced.

The mercury this morning established a new mark for 8 A. M. when it recorded 81 degrees. This was only five degrees less than the temperature last night and seven higher than yesterday morning.

PARADE IS TO BE ONE BIG FEATURE.

Plans for Pageant on Fourth of July Are Now Well Under Way.

CONTRIBUTIONS ARE COMING IN

Scores of Societies Will Have Big Delegations in Line and All of Them Are Interested—Some Floats Will Be Given Places, Too.

The committees having the Fourth of July celebration in charge [illegible] this morning [illegible] town affairs and smiled [illegible] John Duggan [illegible] worries all when he called the meeting to order, nor were any of the others visibly perturbed.

"Those Uniontown people are making a lot of noise," said Mr Duggan, "but we are doing the work. They say they will have more money to spend than we will. They will have to because there are too many rebates in their propositions.

"Every dollar we collect will buy 100 cents worth of service for the celebration. There are no leaks here.

That was the sentiment of the others around the table. Plans are rapidly being shaped up to meet the plans which have been formulated. It is going to be a big day from the minute the salute is fired at sunrise until the greatest fireworks display ever seen in the county is finished at night. There isn't a dull minute in the program and there are yet attractions to be placed.

Of course the parade in the morning will be the one best bet. Col. J. M. Reid, the Chief Marshal, held a conference with the committee this morning concerning his plans. He is informed that dozens of societies will be in line. The Uniform Rank of the Knights of Malta, will have 200 men in line wearing new uniforms which have never been seen in public before. The Red Men will have a similar number. These are to be massacred later in a sham battle with Company D, the Knights of Pythias, Elks, Eagles, Moose, Woodmen, Knights of Columbus and others will be represented, either in uniform or with massive floats.

Physical Director Proech of the Y M C A., has called a meeting of the intermediate classes tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock, planning to have a detail of 40 well drilled boys in line. The boys will be instructed in maneuvers for the parade. They will also be uniformed. There will be the Civil War Veterans, the farmers headed by Comrade J. J. Barnhart of Sunnyside and a score of automobiles.

In addition to this it is expected fully a thousand members of the various societies will march.

During the afternoon and evening a big dance will be held in the Armory. J. G Gorman fathered this idea and was appointed a committee of one to have charge of it. Bills for the affair are being scattered in all parts of the county by the Connellsville Bill Posting Company.

In the list of contributions which was published yesterday the West Penn Cold Storage Company was credited with donating $25. This was the donation of the West Penn Railways Company. The cold storage concern's contribution is included in the list which follows:

THE GOULD CASE ENDS SUDDENLY.

Justice Dowling in Deciding Case Today Exonerates Wife.

GRANTS HER A SEPARATION

And Allows Her Alimony of $3,000 a Month—Sudden Termination of Case is General Surprise—Thought It Would Be on Long Time.

United Press Telegram.

NEW YORK, June 25.—In deciding the Gould case this afternoon Justice Dowling completely exonerated Mrs Gould of all the charges by granting her a separation and alimony of $3,000 per month. The sudden termination of the case caused a general surprise. It is believed to have been due to the fact that her husband did not testify.

Defiant and more than ready to fight back Mrs Gould faced Defiance Nicoll, the husband's counsel in the suit for separation from Howard Gould today when court opened.

"I said then and I say now that I was never drunk in all my life" she replied hotly to Nicoll's opening question.

"Then every witness that testified to your drunkenness, were falsely?" asked Nicoll.

"Absolutely, and in every detail, she snapped.

Attorney Nicoll was unsuccessful in an effort to have Mrs Gould tell him the color of Dunstan Farnum's eyes, his hair, how broad his shoulders are, whether he is clean shaven or wore a mustache, or whether or not his hair is long and curly.

"I am not nearly so observant of Mr Farnum's personality as you think," she replied to his questioning.

SIX FOREIGNERS ARE DISCHARGED.

They Were Arrested by Direction of Squire Donaldson Wednesday.

RAKING FOR METHODS USED

Attorney E. H. Reppert, District Attorney Henderson and Judge Umbel All Make Pertinent Comments Regarding Activities of Squires and Constables.

UNIONTOWN, June 25.—While Squire J P. Donaldson of South Union township was confined in jail this morning as a result of his reckless use of a revolver while intoxicated, the court heard the habeas corpus proceedings instituted by Attorney E. H. Reppert to secure the freedom of six foreigners arrested Wednesday evening at Brownsville and committed to jail by Donaldson because they could not produce $10 each as a forfeit.

The testimony developed that Constable George Thomas was given a blanket warrant by Squire Donaldson calling for the arrest of one Walter Wellings and 60 others for disorderly conduct on last Sunday. Thomas did not know the men so Donaldson said he would go along and point them out. Donaldson didn't see the alleged trouble, but he designated the six men to be taken in custody. Between 9 and 10 o'clock that night they were given a hearing but could not produce the $10 required by the Squire for their appearance at a later date. They were taken to jail.

Superintendent William Atwater of the Brownfield plant testified that the only trouble on Sunday was a fight started by two Americans in a foreign house. It didn't amount to much and the 60 men against whom warrants were issued could only have been spectators.

Atwater said he explained this to Donaldson, who was drunk, and the latter wanted to fight. It developed at the hearing before the court that Wellings, named in the warrant, was not in the fight, and of the six men arrested two were asleep at the time, three watched the scrap from their yards some distance away, while the sixth saw his wife knocked down in the melee and dragged her away.

Attorney Reppert, in his argument, declared such proceedings were simply blackmail and referred to another section, about New Salem, where a "great" detective is hot on the trail of costs and free advertising.

District Attorney Henderson said it was hard to stop these evils because the victims did not complain, seeking to avoid the meshes of the law, with which they are not familiar.

Judge Umbel discharged the men and declared the practises must stop. He warned Constables against serving blanket warrants unless they are accompanied by one who was on the scene at the time and knows who is being arrested. The next Grand Juror will take the matter up.

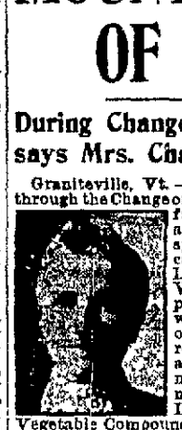
WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt. — "I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and the annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—Mrs. Chas Barclay, R. F. D., Graniteville, Vt.



No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 80 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

FRIDAY EVENING JUNE 25, 1909.

CAMPAIGN EXPENSES AND OUR NEW ELECTION LAWS.

The accounts of the candidates at the Democratic judicial primary show an expenditure of approximately $10,000. This is a pretty large sum to spend for the nomination for an office the salary of which is $6,000 per annum, but it is quite modest compared with the cost of the judicial primary of 1907.

An analysis of the expenditures is interesting. Candidate Umbel expended nearly twice as much as Candidate Dumbauld, but he got the consolation prize in the shape of the nomination. The following is a summary of the amounts reported to be expended by the candidates:

Purpose.	Dumbauld.	Umbel.
Printing and adv	$2,512	$2,510
Clerk hire	225	115
Traveling expenses	8	18
Headquarters expenses	121	—
"Disseminators"	788	3,670

The amounts expended for printing and stationery, clerk hire and traveling expenses were approximately the same. The candidates didn't travel very much. They stayed at home and sent letters and advertised in the newspapers. It was more convenient and more economical.

Dumbauld paid $788 to 24 persons for canvassers, watchers and teams, as his account specifically states, while Umbel paid $3,670 to five persons specifically for expenditure under the Corrupt Practises Act, Section 4, Paragraphs 1, 2, 6 7 and 8, which paragraphs read as follows:

1. For printing and traveling expenses, and personal expenses incident thereto, stationery, postage, expressage, freight, telegraph, telephone and public messenger service.
2. For the dissemination of information to the public.
6. For the employment of watchers at primary meetings and elections to the number allowed by law.
7. For the transportation of voters to and from the polls.
8. For legal expenses, bona fide incurred in connection with any nomination or election.

The accounts would indicate that the $3,670 placed by Judge Umbel in the hands of five trusted lieutenants were intended chiefly if not wholly for the employment of watchers, teams and canvassers or disseminators, and we assume that the money was so expended.

But there is no record to show it; and with due respect we cannot see anything in the law warranting such blanket expenditures, certainly not without a supplementary statement from those entrusted with the amount; because the whole intent and purpose of the law is to prevent the use of money for corrupting voters. There is nothing now before us to show whether these sums of $3,670 and $788 were lawfully or unlawfully expended.

The Corrupt Practises Act and the Uniform Primary Act make a sight of trouble for candidates be they ever so honest, and it is a question whether they have effected any real reforms, but of the two laws, the Corrupt Practises Act is the preferable legislation. It has possibly prevented some corruption, though its provisions are systematically evaded and ignored. We know from experience that the Uniform Primary Act has enabled the voters of one party to seriously influence if not actually dictate the nominees of another. It has thus perverted the primary system and made its last condition worse than its first. It has encouraged bribery, promoted perjury and made a new market for the sale of political franchises.

In view of our experiences with these new laws, we are not far from the final conclusion that the Uniform Primary Act should be repealed and the Corrupt Practises Act so amended that the candidate himself, or his appointed treasurer, shall alone pay the expenses of the campaign, taking receipts for each and every payment setting forth what it is made for, itemizing such expenditures in his account and filing the vouchers therefor with the statement.

Congressman Cooper has not yet been able to get an appropriation for the canalization of the Yough to Connellsville, but he has gotten a car load of bass to stock it with game fish, and with that we will have to be content. It may be added that the fish will content some people more than the improvement of the river could possibly do. There's one consolation to be drawn from the situation. We will have the taut line up this way while McKeesport and West Newton will have the slack.

WAS A PRETTY HOME WEDDING

Many Jurors Drawn From East Huntingdon Township For August Court—Scottdale Woman Elected Officer of Missionary Society.

SCOTTDALE, June 25.—The marriage of Nellie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Hough, and James C. Sievin, of Lawrenceville, Pittsburg, was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents on Mulberry street, last evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. R. B. Mansell, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Scottdale, was the officiating minister, and the very pretty ceremony was witnessed by the immediate families of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends of the former. The bridal march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. Charles Stone, and the bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. P. A. Strohm, while Mr. Sievin's best man was his brother, Charles Sievin. Miss Helen Bixler, a niece of the bride, was the flower girl. The impressive ring ceremony was used, and following it was a bridal supper, after which the couple left for a wedding trip, and upon their return will reside in Scottdale. The bride is a popular young lady of town, and the groom is the catcher on the McKeesport baseball team, of the O. & P. league and has many friends here, having been a member of the Scottdale team of the P. & W. Va. league last season.

Condition Not Improving.

The condition of E. C. Porter, of near town, who has been critically ill for sometime at his home, showed no signs of improvement yesterday, the extreme heat being very oppressive to him. LARGE DAMAGE SUIT IS ENTERED.

Mrs. Annie Ott Claims Damages to the Extent of Over a Million.

BERWIND-WHITE CO. DEFENDANT

Alleges That They Mined the Wrong Seam of Coal; Did It Wilfully and Negligently and Also Damaged Surface by Improper Mining Methods.

SOMERSET, Pa., June 25.—This morning the largest civil suit for damages ever filed in Somerset county was entered on the docket in the fice of J B Gerhard, Prothonotary. Mrs Annie Ott of Paint township seeks to recover from the Berwind-White Coal Mining Company the sum of $1,071,911 for damages sustained by her by reason of the unlawful removal of the "C" or "Cement Seam" of coal underlying her property. She entered into an agreement with the defendant corporation whereby she sold them the "B" or "Miller Seam" of coal under her land but the company mined the 'C Seam"

Mrs. Ott owns and operates a farm in Paint township containing 225 acres, adjoining the lands of Abraham D. Weaver, Jonas Weaver, Alex Rininger, Wilmore Coal Company, the Peter Ott heirs, Peter Hoffman, Jacob Weaver and Joseph B. Miller. There are erected on the land a three story frame dwelling, a two story barn and outbuildings. She also kept a large number of domestic animals, sheep and cattle, which were necessary for the successful operation of her farm. Several large springs furnished a never failing supply of pure water which was ample for the stock as well as for the irrigation of the farm. The surface of the land was in an excellent state of cultivation prior to the commitment of the trespass by the defendant, and yielded large profits The plaintiff owns the land in fee simple excepting the "B" or "Miller Seam" of coal underlying about 181 acres

The plaintiff alleges that the Berwind-White Coal Company committed the trespass wilfully and knowingly and contrary to the Act of Assembly approved May 8, 1876, and therefore claims damages in three times the value of the coal mined by the defendant and converted to its use, in the sum of $995,149.05

The defendant also claims damages in the sum of $62,734.05, alleging that the defendant comany mined and removed the coal negligently and in a manner that caused injury to and rendered less valuable the veins of coal, limestone and other minerals over lying the Cement Seam, thereby rendering the mining of the overlying seams more difficult, and decreasing their value to the plaintiff in the sum named above.

Damages in $14,000 are also claimed by the plaintiff, who alleges that in the mining operations insufficient surface support was left which produced numerous depressions breaks, gaps and openings in the surface of the plaintiffs farm, which caused the loss of the valuable springs referred to above which had furnished an ample supply of water previous to this time

The attorneys who brought this action are Norman T Boose of Somerset and Charles C Greer and George D. Wolfe of Johnstown

COMPANY D UP TO STANDARD.

Captain Dunn Has a Full Complement and Men On Waiting List.

BETTER PREPARED THIS YEAR

Erection of the Armory Has Given Company an Opportunity to Prepare Itself for Good Showing at Somerset—Big Time is Expected.

In less than a month the National Guard encampment beings at Somerset, and this year Captain Harry Dunn will have a full complement of men to go to the camp with. At the present time the ranks are full and there are 10 men on the waiting list which assures him that he will have the required number, even if some of the men cannot go

Last year the company was not up to the standard owing to the fact that it had been for months without an active head The men were a little rusty on their drilling, having had no quarters in which to perform the drills The erection of the Armory put new life and vim into the company and the drills have been going on with weekly regularity the result attained being an especially high class off State soldiers

The band has kept up to a high mark of perfection, the weekly meeting at dances helping to improve them The hospital corps this year is in better condition than ever and especially its outfit, which has been carefully kept in the new armory.

The boys this year have been able to gather in more money to be expended on the mess outfits, and there will always be something doing in the eating line about Company D's quarters when visitors call

The last encampment held at Somerset was six years ago During the entire time that the local company was in camp there was a steady flow of Connellsville visitors The Baltimore & Ohio railroad ran a Sunday excursion to the camp at that time and an enormous crowd took advantage of the occasion to see their friends It was one of the biggest days that Somerset ever had

RUNAWAY BOY COMES BACK A MAN.

Seventeen years ago Edward Bache, of Ruffsdale ran away from home. His family and friends believed him dead until a few days ago he returned, coming from Chicago. Bache had trouble in locating his parents, who have changed their residence several times in the interim

"Well as I got older and kept thinking about the matter I saw clearly my duty to return to my parents and brothers and sisters. As Chicago is not far away I just decided without further parleying to come home," was the reason Bache assigned for his return Although he recognized members of his family and his parents they had difficulty in realizing that the big broad shouldered man is the youngster who almost a score of yea s ago disappeared so completely that they had given him up for dead

During his absence, Mr Bache has traveled over almost all of the United States He has visited Cuba and Porto Rico His experiences have character such as is acquired through strenuous encounter with the hard world He lived as a sheep herder in Idaho, and has been for months at a time so far out in the country that he has not encountered another human in months In Kansas he took refuge in dug-outs during the raging cyclones that tear up that part of the West semi occasionally

Bache is at present employed in one of the large tin mills of Chicago His wages average from $6 to $7 per day Although but few of the friends of his boyhood were found Mr Bache has formed new acquaintances that promise to ripen into close friendship If he remains near his native heath any length of time

The Man From Brodney's

By GEORGE BARR M'CUTCHEON

Copyright, 1908, by Dodd, Mead & Co.

"They understand that there will be one here in a day or two if we need it," said Browne, with a sly grin "That's the bluff we've worked" He looked around for his wife and, finding that she had gone inside, politely waved his hand to the Englishman and followed

At 3 o'clock Britt returned with the recalcitrant servants—or at least the "pick" of them, as he termed the score he had chosen from the hundred or more He seemed to have an Aladdin-like effect over the horde

Calmly taking Lord Deppingham and his following into his confidence he said, in reply to their indignant remonstrances later on in the day

'I know that an American man o'war hasn't any right to fire upon British possessions, but you just keep quiet and let well enough alone They just simply know that I can send wireless messages and that a cruiser would be out there tomorrow if necessary, pegging away at these green hills with cannon balls so big that there wouldn't be anything left but the horizon in an hour or two You let me do the talking I've got 'em bluffed, and I'll keep 'em that way'

Over in the gorgeous west wing Lord Deppingham later on tried to convince his sulky little wife that the Americans were an amazing lot, after all Bromley tapped at the door

"Tea is served in the hanging garden, my lady," she announced Her mistress looked up in surprise, red eyed and a bit dishevled

"Ask some one to bring the tea things in here, Bromley," she said sternly. 'Besides, I want to give some orders We must have system here, not Americanisms"

The tea things did not come in In their stead came pretty Mrs Browne

"Won't you please join Mr Browne and me in that dear little garden? It's so cool up there, and it must be dreadfully warm here Really you should move at once into Mr Wyckholme's old apartments across the court from ours They are splendid But now do come and have tea with us"

CHAPTER VIII.

THE MAN FROM BRODNEY'S

IT was quite forty eight hours before the Deppinghams surrendered to the Brownes They were obliged to humbly admit in the seclusion of their own councils that it was to the obnoxious but energetic Britt that they owed their present and ever growing comfort

Late in the afternoon of the day following the advent of the Brownes, Lord and Lady Deppingham were laboriously fanning themselves in the midst of their stifling Marie Antoinette elegance.

'By Jove Aggy, it's too beastly hot here for words' growled he for the hundredth time 'I think we'd better move into your grandfather's rooms

"Now, Deppy, don't let the Brownes talk you into everything they suggest" she complained, determined to be stubborn to the end "They know entirely too much"

'That's all very good my dear, but you know quite as well as I that we made a frightful mistake in choosing these rooms It is cooler on that side of the house I'm not too proud to be comfortable don't you know"

The next day they moved into the west wing, and that evening they had the Brownes to dine with them in the banquet hall Deppingham awoke in the middle of the night with violent cramps in his stomach'

"Don't say a word to Lady Deppingham," he grunted sitting up in bed and gazing wildly at his valet, "but I've been poisoned The —— servants—ought—don't you know! Might have known Silly ass See what I mean? Get something for me—quick!"

For two hours Antoine applied hot water bags and soothing strups and his master far from dying as he continually prophesied, dropped off into a peaceful sleep

The next morning Deppingham, fully convinced that the native servants had tried to poison him unconditionally discharged the entire force

Of course there was a great upheaval Lady Agnes came tearing down to the servants hall followed directly by the Brownes and Mr Britt.

'Stop" she cried "Deppy what are you doing? Discharging them after we've had such a time getting them? Are you crazy?'

'They're a pack of snakes—I mean snenks They're assassins They tried to poison every one of us last"—

Britt smoothed the troubled waters with astonishing ease The servants returned to their duties but not without grumbling and no end of savage glances all of which were leveled at the luckless Deppingham

"Why poison?' demanded Britt "They've got knives and guns, haven't they?'

'My dear man, that would put them to no end of trouble cleaning up after us,' said Deppingham loftily

Meanwhile it may be well to depict the situation from the enemy's point of view—the enemy being the Islanders as a unit They were prepared to abide by the terms of the will so long as it remained clear to them that fair treatment came from the opposing interests Rasula, the Ararat lawyer, in mass meeting had discussed the document They understood its requirements and its restrictions they knew by this time that there was small chance of the original beneficiaries coming into the property under the provisions Later came the news that marriage between the heirs was out of the question Then the islanders laughed as they toiled But they were not to be caught napping Jacob von Blitz the superintendent stolid German that he was saw far into the future It was he who set the native lawyer unceremoniously aside and urged competent representation in London. The great law firm headed by Sir John Brodney was chosen A wide awake representative of the distinguished solicitors was now on his way to the island with the swarthy committee which had created so much interest in the metropolis during its brief stay

Jacob von Blitz came to the island when he was twenty years old That was twenty years before the death of Taswell Skaggs He had worked in the South African diamond fields and had no difficulty in securing employment with Skaggs and Wyckholme

Von Blitz was shrewd enough to see that the grandchildren were not coming to the island for the mere pleasure of sojourning there, their motive was plain It was he who advised—even commanded—the horde of servants to desert the chateau

He lived, with his three wives, in the hills just above and south of the town itself The Englishmen who worked in the bank and the three Boer foremen also had houses up there where it was cooler but Von Blitz was the only one who practiced polygamy His wives were Persian women and handsome after the Persian fashion

One hot, dry afternoon about a week after the reopening of the chateau the siesta of a swarthy population was disturbed by the shouts of those who kept impatient watch of the sea Five minutes later the whole town of Ararat knew that the smoke of a steamer lay low on the horizon No one doubted that it came from the stack of the boat that was bringing Rasula and the English solicitor Joy turned to exultation when the word came down from Von Blitz that it was the long looked for steamship, the Sir Joshua

Von Blitz stood at the landing place to welcome Rasula and his comrades and to be the first to clasp the hand of the man from Brodney's

At last his figure could be made out on the forward deck His straw hat was at least a head higher than the turban of Rasula, who was indicating to him the interesting spots in the hills

'He's big,' commented Von Blitz comfortably more to himself than to his neighbor And young" he added a few minutes later Bowles, standing at his side offered the single comment

Good looking"

As the tall stranger stepped from the boat to the pier Von Blitz turned a look of triumph upon Britt who had elbowed through the crowd a moment before and was standing close by

The newcomer was an American!

'I've sighted the enemy," exclaimed Bobby Browne coming up from Neptune's pool—the largest of the fountains His wife and Lady Deppingham were sitting in the cool retreat under the hanging garden Would you care to have a peek at him?'

I should think so said his wife, jumping to her feet He's been on the island three days and we haven't had a glimpse of him Come along Lady Deppingham

Lady Deppingham arose reluctantly stifling a yawn

They had come to call the new American lawyer the enemy No one knew his name or cared to know it, for that matter Bowles in answer to the telephone inquiries of Saunders said that the new solicitor had taken temporary quarters above the bank and was in hourly consultation with Von Blitz, Rasula and others Much of his time was spent at the mines Later on it was commonly reported he was to take up his residence in Wyckholme's deserted bungalow far up on the mountain side in plain view from the chateau

Life at the chateau had not been allowed to drag The white servants had become good friends despite the natural disdain that the trained English expert feels for the unpolished American domestic

Miss Pelham, the stenographer from West Twenty-third street, had set her cap for the unsuspecting Mr Saunders She had learned in the wisdom of her sex that he was fancy free Mr Saunders, fully warned against the American typewriter girl as a class having read the most shocking jokes at her expense in the comic papers was rather shy at the outset, but Britt gallantly came to Miss Pelham's defense and ultimate rescue by emphatically assuring Saunders that she was a perfect lady, guaranteed to cause uneasiness to no man's wife

'But I have no wife,' quickly protested Saunders, turning a dull red

"The devil!" exclaimed Britt apparently much upset by the revelation

But of this more anon

Browne conducted the two young women across the drawbridge and to the sunlit edge of the terrace where two servants awaited them with parasols

'There he is! See him?" almost whispered Browne, as if the solitary motionless figure at the foot of the ivy one was likely to hear his voice and be frightened away

The enemy was sitting serenely on one of the broad iron benches just inside the gates to the park, his arms stretched out along the back, his legs extended and crossed It was quite apparent that he was lazily surveying the chateau, puffing with consistent ease at the cigarette which drooped from his lips

"Mr Britt was right said Mrs Browne irrelevantly She was peering at the stranger through the binoculars. 'He is very good looking"

And you from Boston, too" scoffed Lady Deppingham Mrs Browne flushed and smiled deprecatingly

"Wonder what he's doing here in the grounds?" puzzled Browne

'It's plain to me that he is resting his audacious bones,' said her ladyship, glancing brightly at her colegatee

Three men were approaching by the path which led down from the far away stables Browne recognized the dark skinned men as servants in the chateau—the major domo the chef and the master of the stables

Lord Deppingham must have sent them down to pitch him over the wall," he said with an excited grin.

"Impossible! My husband is hunting for sapphires in the ravine back of"—She did not complete the sentence.

The enemy was greeting the statuesque natives with a friendliness that upset all calculations. It was evident that the meeting was prearranged There was no attempt at secrecy. The conference, whatever its portent, had the merit of being quite aboveboard In the end the tall solicitor, lifting his helmet with a gesture so significant that it left no room for speculation turned and sauntered through the broad gateway and out into the forest road. The three servants returned as they had come, by way of the bridle path along the wall

The umpire cannot be blamed for yesterday's defeat although he wasn't giving the Cokers any of the close ones. The failure of the Connellsville lads to paste the sphere while the men were on the sacks, and two sensational catches by Joe Phillips when hits meant runs, resulted in defeat on the home grounds.

The team was unsteady in the opening inning, Ike Francis being on the bench with Charley Bourne, and Summers was flighty. The first ball hit to him he fumbled while a drive by Hilley took a hand bound on reaching Hagan and went for two sacks. Rudolph bingled for a base and sent Hilley home while Johnny Yoedt threw Phillips' bunt wide to first. Carlss sacrificed and Carnes hit to Gilligan, Rudolph scoring on the out. Cowan hit to Yoedt, who touched Phillips on the line going home.

Gilligan opened things for the Cokers with a single but was caught trying to work the delayed steal. Hagan and Myers went out on infield hits. Calhoun drew a pass in the second but was forced on Frailey's hit. Tiffany singled and Summers did likewise. The Cokers hadn't learned that Carlss can throw and Frailey was pegged out at the plate. Tiffany and Summers advanced a base on the play but Chip Francis sent his usual fly to the outfield and the side was retired.

Heroic measures were adopted in the fourth and resulted in a run, but the Cokers should have made a million. Calhoun and Frailey went out but Tiffany drew a base. Cowan fumbled Chip Francis' grounder and the bases were full. Sweeney then yanked Johnny Yoedt out of the game in order to let Ike Francis bat and the rewarded his judgment by jamming out a single which scored Tiffany. Gilligan then came to the pan and rapped out a fly that looked like a homer. Joe Phillips ran across several dozen yards, jumped a dozen feet into the air and fell down on his head with the ball nestled within his glove. It was a great catch but broke the Cokers hearts.

Hagan singled in the next inning and went to second when Phillips threw the ball wide to first. Myers flew to Phillips. Calhoun let Livengood slip the third strike over without offering at it and Frailey hit to Hilley only to be tossed out.

The best chance the Cokers had was in the sixth but the lack of a timely hit spoiled everything. Tiffany led off with a single and Summers walked. Chip Francis laid down a bunt and was safe when Miller dropped Hilley's throw. Cannon hit a long fly but Gilligan tried to get away with a bunt and was nipped at first. With two on and two out, Hagan was hit and forced on a weak grounder to Cowan from Myers' bat.

Chip Francis opened the eighth with a triple to right field. Sweeney went in to bat for Cannon and hit a sharp one to Cowan. The latter threw home as Francis came in to the plate. It was a close decision so Weddige called Francis out. The Connellsville players declare Chip should have been called safe and so do most of the fans, but Weddige wish't handing the Cokers anything.

Cotter relieved Cannon in the ninth and passed Carnes. Cowan sacrificed while Snodgrass drove a grounder at Summers. The throw was low and got away from Tiffany, letting the runner be safe. Wilson singled and Carnes scored. Miller singled but the next two were easy outs.

Hagan fanned in the ninth and Myers went out on an infield hit. Calhoun singled and stole second, scoring an instant later on Frailey's first hit. Hopes rose for an instant only to die when Tiffany went out, Hilley to Carnes. The score:

"The Saddest Words of Tongue—"
We might have won
If Joe Phillips hadn't landed Gilligan's drive; or
If Dutch Myers could hit with men on bases; or
If Chip Francis' triple had come in the second inning; or
If Weddige had called Chip safe at the plate in the eighth; or
If the team had steadied down in that awful first inning, or
If Cotter hadn't passed Carnes in the ninth; or
If Tiffany had anchored Summers' bad peg to first.
But we didn't, so what's the use?

Random Remarks.
They have our goat.
Can't blame the umpire but he was bad enough.
Never can win in Uniontown—Weddige will be there.
Out bit the 'other fellows again and lost. Old, old story.
Never miss like Francis until he gets out of the game for a day.
That boy Myers did some great work in the field. Batting eye gone, though.
Summers had two clean hits and it is a question whether Tiffany wasn't to blame for one of his errors.
Both right fielders had errors on throws to first. Neither was costly, however.
We might have won if we could have held Uniontown scoreless in the last inning. Were not looking for that run.
No double header in Uniontown today. Wilson may work again. Hoe Livengood gets another chance.
It is rumored that Abe Kruger is about in trim and will work against the Cokers this week. Can't do better than the rest, Abe.

"THE BALL GAME."

On Exhibition at Wertheimer's Store on North Pittsburg Street.

An interesting picture is on exhibition at Wertheimer's clothing store on North Pittsburg street. The picture is entitled "The Ball Game," and is a characteristic illustration of America's greatest sport, and will please every lover of the game. It shows in a clever way many characters whom anyone will recognize, the small boy whose love of the game leads him to climb the fence, the 33d degree fans, who occupy honorary positions on the broken chair and the soap box in the field; the noisy fellows in the grandstand. They are all there—the "Well, well" man; the "Hit 'er out" man, the 'Kill the umpire" man. You will see someone you know in the picture.

In the pose of the batsman and the tense attitude of the catcher, the picture reveals that the game is at a critical stage; the score is presumably a tie, two out, a man on third, a count two strikes and three balls on the batsman. The batsman, all set to swing at the ball, might be the double of the immortal "Casey."

The picture was drawn for Hart Schaffner & Marx, and is one of the best things that Samuel Nelson Abbott, a New York artist, has done.
